European Directive 2000/31/EC on certain aspects of electronic commerce

By placing an order, the customer enters into a contract and firmly accepts the pricing and description of the products available for sale as well as all general terms of sale.

Provision of the French Consumer Code regarding remote sales, Articles L121-16 et seq of the French Consumer Code

The consumer has the right to retract an order without being required to provide any explanation and shall not be subject to any penalty; only the fees to return a product shall be borne by the consumer. In accordance with the law, the buyer of a product has a period of seven (7) clear days from the date on which the product is delivered in which to retract an order. If this period is supposed to end on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, it will be extended until the following business day.
